WOMAN'S PART IN PROGRESS.

Do you know that woman has played an important part in the world as a pioneer, and has been courageous enough to enter fields previously consecrated to man? Here are a few interesting examples of woman's courage and forethought:

The first printing press established by women was within the walls of a Dominican convent in 1476, with nuns as compositors.

The first magazine in America entirely sustained by working women was the Lowell Offering.

The first juvenile paper in America was established by Mrs. Caroline Gilman in 1822, and its name was the Rosebud.

The first newspaper in America was conducted by Margaret Draper.

The Declaration of Independence of America was printed by Mary Catherine Goddard, in Maryland.

The first newspaper owned and conducted in all its departments by women and working in the interests of women was the Lily, by Amelia Bloomer.

The Balance was started in 1871, and was the first news journal conducted by women in Chicago, the proprietors and publishers being Maria Hadley and Mary Tomlin.

The first newspaper published in Rhode Island was at Newport, 1722, by Anne Franklin, a widow of the publisher. She was a printer to the colony, printing pamphlets, laws, and almanacs as well as calicos and linens.

The first American newspaper was published in 1704, and to 1708 there were seventy-eight published, sixteen of which were conducted by women, and fourteen of which were the firm champions of liberty and equal rights.

The first person to publish a protest against slavery in England was a woman—Elizabeth Heyrick.

Abby Keller Foster was one of the earliest lecturers on slavery in America. The first woman to claim the right to vote in a legislative body in America was Margaret Brent, in 1647, in Maryland. She was a relative of Cecil Calvert, Lord Baltimore, and the representative of Leonard Calvert, the Governor who told her "to take all and pay all." She claimed the right, and was granted the right of acting as the lord proprietor's attorney.

The first woman in America admitted to a law school was Phoebe Cousins, of Washington University, St. Louis, in 1869.

Fashion's Latest Fancies

Are seen in the new autumn Suits and Coats we are tailoring to measure at from $20.00 and upward for suits, and $17.50 and upward for coats. There is a character about the cut and contour of our garments and a skill in the workmanship that pleases without fail. Because we are so critical in measuring we obtain a fit beyond criticism.

Drop in to-day and feast your eyes with a view of what New York's smartest women are wearing. We offer the same models, materials, and making at the price you would pay for ordinary ready-made garments.

Or let us remodel your last year's suit to this year's style. You will be pleased.
